Ted Sullivan, now scouting for the White Sox, watched the game from the grandstand yesterday. Both Jimmie Callahan and Owner Comiskey, of the Chicago Americans, are anxious to get hold of some young pitchers. Sullivan was watching Strain, and since the youngster had one of his best days, it is probable that he left an agreeable impression in the mind of the expert. Sullivan is the man in charge of the world's tour to be made next fall by the Sox and Giants.
